

THE BIG TEST

Terry sat glumly in his desk at school. The teacher was explaining about the [math/ ask/ down] test that she was giving the following [see/ day/ mat]. Terry knew that he had not studied [jag/ his/ far] math facts as well as he [gather/ from/ could]. He knew that he would have [on/ to/ as] study very hard tonight to be [since/ quite/ ready] for the test tomorrow. Terry's friend, George, [didn't/ cares/ leaned] over to whisper to Terry. "Are [ask/ you/ so] ready for the test?" he asked. "[At/ No/ In], I'm not," whispered Terry. "I'll have [to/ as/ in] study late tonight to be ready [for/ due/ wind] the test tomorrow."

Terry kicked a [race/ saw/ rock] down the street as he headed [see/ vent/ for] home. He hated the thought of [seven/ having/ down] to study for the test tonight. [The/ Saw/ Toe] air was warm and he wanted [in/ to/ my] go out and play baseball with [his/ dip/ cat] friends. When Terry got home, he [ask/ ate/ rat] a snack of chocolate chip cookies. [He/ Sew/ At] watched cartoons on the TV. He [zoo/ for/ went] out to the backyard and threw [orange/ sticks/ dipper] for his dog to catch. He climbed [jolt/ disk/ high] into a tree and watched the branches [sway/ sip/ dot] back and forth. He did everything [do/ he/ joy] could to get out of studying [lot/ into/ for] the test.

At last, it was [sail/ time/ cone] to go to bed. Terry felt [doll/ very/ six] guilty inside. He knew that he [had/ bid/ call] not studied for the test like [in/ he/ as] said he would. That night, Terry dreamed [to/ in/ of] taking the math test. He dreamed [dive/ want/ that] he got the test back and [it/ on/ as] had a big "A" at the [kit/ top/ date] of the test. When Terry woke [on/ up/ in] he realized that the "A" was [just/ drag/ care] a dream. Today was the day [as/ in/ to] take the big math test.

Terry [dog/ story/ walked] to school with dread in his [grate/ heart/ sail]. He did not want to take [the/ upon/ sits] test. When he got to class [the/ saw/ tick] teacher handed out the tests. Terry [diver/ sister/ looked] at the test lying on his [from/ sick/ desk]. Just as he thought, he did [not/ kit/ dim] know any of the problems. "Oh, [saw/ ease/ why] didn't I study for this test?" [do/ as/ he] thought.

Then Terry had an idea. Terry [had/ saw/ can] a very sneaky, bad idea. "I'll [just/ dial/ been] peek at someone else's paper while [doll/ the/ very] teacher isn't looking," he thought. When [doe/ the/ care] teacher turned her back, Terry peeked [pen/ vat/ over] George's shoulder to look at his [test/ give/ cord]. George did not know that Terry [sun/ was/ vat] looking at his paper. "Terry!" yelled [for/ cone/ the] teacher. "Why are you looking at George's [paper/ volley/ dipper]?" All of the students turned around [we/ on/ to] look at Terry. Terry's face turned [beet/ for/ sea] red. He knew he had been [caught/ orange/ yelp]. The teacher came back and took Terry's [from/ paper/ next]. She ripped the test up and [jolly/ threw/ toil] it into the trashcan. She sent Terry [from/ steam/ down] to the office for a spanking. Terry [out/ for/ sat] in a chair in the school [orange/ office/ rather]. He felt very sad and ashamed [invent/ inside/ clear]. "I will study for my tests [from/ down/ claw] now on," he said to himself.
